PROJECTS DESCRIPTION
INTERNATIONAL WORKCAMP 2015 – 2016

DJ-1501	30 MAY – 08 JUNE 2015	ELEPHANT PROJECT	ANIMAL CONSRV	12 VOLS
DJ-1509	16 – 25 JAN 2016	ELEPHANT PROJECT	ANIMAL CONSRV	12 VOLS
DJ-1512	27 FEB – 07 MARCH 2016	ELEPHANT PROJECT	ANIMAL CONSRV	12 VOLS

Background: Currently the conflict between elephants and human are rising because they have less area to live. Elephants are being squeezed into smaller area, since the local farmer plant the crops and elephants like to destroy and eat them. As a result, the elephants frequently raid and destroy the crops which will cause a conflict between human and elephant. Due to this reason, local government and organization which concerns about the wild life are working together to save or conserve the elephants and reduce the conflict. This project aiming to assist local governmental office named Way Kambas National Park which located in Elephant Conservation Centre Lampung to conserve the sanctuary.

Our project IS NOT a safari place, but it is mostly as a place for elephant conservation which facing problem of critical decreasing population and threats due to illegal lodging which endanger their life. The PKG is located inside and managed by the Balai Taman Nasional Way Kambas / BTNWK (Way Kambas National Park) covering round 1.300 square kilometers in Lampung Province, Southern Sumatera Island. The park consists of swamp forest and lowland rain forest.

There are around 60 elephants with 60 mahouts for each (1 mahout responsible for 1 elephant). All of the elephants in the PKG are chained when they were in the stall during the night. The purpose of putting chain in one of their legs is for monitoring, handle the elephants when they are stress, to distinguish between the PKG's elephants and the wild one. The mahout using special tool called "gancu" (little iron hammer with curve point) to handle the elephant. The way how to use the gancu is by touching gently behind the elephant's ear and sometimes on its head.

Work: Volunteer will help local mahout (a person who takes care and train an elephant) daily to take care the elephant starting from bathing/showering, feeding, health checking and grassing the elephant. One local mahout will be accompanied by one volunteer in doing his daily job.

Study theme: The volunteers could learn about the animal's life and how local people take care of and handle the conservation.

Leisure Time: During the free time, the volunteers may stay at Ecolodge and have wild life and eco tour.

Accommodation: The volunteers will be accommodated in Elephant Conservation Centre / kind of dormitory (basic conditions, sleeping bag and mat needed). Food will be provided with catering service.

Location: The workcamp will take place in Way Kambas Elephant Conservation Centre, Lampung.

Terminal: Raden Inten II Airport (TKG) Lampung.

Special Requirement: As the participants will stay and live in the area of PKG and BTNWK, then everybody should be open minded, understand and accept the way of local mahout in taking care of the elephants and MUST follow all the project regulations without any exceptions. The volunteer accept all the rules and condition of the project which listed on the preliminary information of the workcamp (attached). Volunteer is recommended NOT to buy flight ticket at least 2 months before the project start, to avoid the cancellation of the project due to lack of participant, please contact and confirm again to the organization for last update information. The project will be run ONLY if the minimum participants are 4 people.
